Visit Artists

Explore this Studio Guide to discover artists you'd love to meet—or simply choose a starting point and follow the trail. Many locations feature multiple artists in one space, and most offer live demonstrations of their work. Use the map and QR codes to navigate each stop and keep an eye out for ARTrails signs along the way.

Buy Art

Connect with the artists, experience creativity as it happens, and bring home something truly original. Artwork is available for purchase at individual studios as well as the Exhibition Gallery.

Become a Friend of ARTrails

You don't have to be an artist to be part of our creative community. Friends of ARTrails receive event invitations, updates, and the opportunity to support and sustain the arts in our region.

Experience Art.

Fall is a wonderful time of year in Lewis County, so come out and enjoy it!

This September, 37 talented artists invite you on a creative adventure—the 24th Annual ARTrails Studio Tour. Travel scenic back roads and explore historic towns throughout Lewis County as you step inside working studios and experience art in action.

Celebrate 24 years of ARTrails with this free, self-guided tour. Meet the artists, discover their creative process, and support local arts by taking home original work from individual studios or the Exhibition Gallery.

While you're out and about, enjoy the many charms of Centralia, Chehalis, and Lewis County. Savor lunch at a local café, visit a gallery, browse downtown shops, relax in a nearby park, or explore museums and historic landmarks.

Visit our website for details on lodging and local attractions—and make a weekend of it!

Additional information is available at:
ARTrailsofSWW.org

Did you know that visitors from 36 states, four countries & three continents have gone on the studio tour since we started keeping track in 2007?

Scholarship Winners

The Kelly Cowan Memorial Scholarship Fund supports emerging artists. This year, scholarships were awarded to one Centralia College student and two Southwest Washington high school graduates. ARTrails is grateful for a generous $500 donation to the Kelly Cowan Memorial Scholarship Fund from Margi and John Long of Chehalis, helping support future generations of artists.

LIDDIA GALPIN

will study Elementary Education at Centralia College after graduating from Adna High School.

CHLOEE THURLOW

who is presently studying Graphic Arts at Centralia College.

ABIGAIL MOORE

will study Film Design at the University of Washington after graduating from Castle Rock High School.

The History of ARTrails

In the spring of 2003, while having dinner after a successful Vernal Equinox Art Fair at Morgan Arts Centre in Toledo, Richard and Susan Roth and Di and Mike Morgan started talking, scheming and dreaming. The four artists decided this area needed something new, something that would involve more artists and that would be a vehicle to build a community of artists.

In early April, they invited 21 Lewis County artists to participate in an artist co-operative event modeled after a similar event held in Sonoma County, California. Working with David Eatwell and the City of Centralia, ARTrails of Southwest Washington was born. The City of Centralia has supported ARTrails from the very beginning. By September, the first ARTrails studio tour became a reality, sending visitors to studios throughout Lewis County. The first Exhibition Gallery was held in the city-owned Wilson Hotel in downtown Centralia and showcased the work of artists from Olympia to Longview and from Morton to Raymond. The next year, and every year since, Centralia has opened the Historic Train Depot to the members of ARTrails for use as the Exhibition Gallery.

Where to Stay

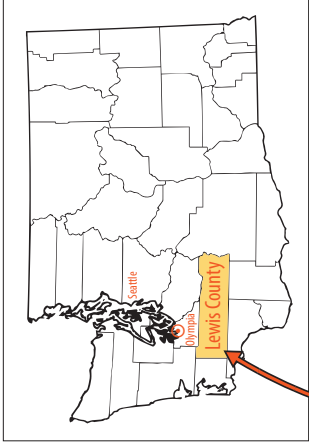

It's nearly impossible to visit all the studios and meet the artists in one day. Plan on staying the weekend or stay the entire week and discover beautiful Lewis County. When you make your reservation tell them that you are coming for ARTrails!

For a list of hotels, bed and breakfasts, and cabins in the area, visit: artrailsofswwa.org/where-to-stay

of southwest washington

With gratitude to our friends, sponsors, and patrons. Thank you for helping make ARTrails possible. ARTrails of Southwest Washington is a vibrant community of emerging and established artists living and working throughout the greater Lewis County area. Each year, our open studio tour invites the public into artists' workspaces to experience creativity in action and connect directly with the people behind the art.

Beyond the tour, ARTrails supports its members through exhibitions, workshops, and education programs that strengthen and celebrate the arts in our region.

We are deeply grateful for the continued support of Lewis County and the Cities of Centralia and Chehalis, along with the many communities that champion the arts throughout our area. These partnerships help us grow and thrive.

A heartfelt thank you to the volunteers and local businesses who share their time, talent, and resources. Your support plays a vital role in our continued success. As we celebrate our 24th year, we're proud to see our artistic community—and the support surrounding it—continue to grow. To learn more, visit our website: ARTrailsOfSWW.org

Please support the businesses and communities that so generously support us—because when you do, you help ensure that creativity continues to flourish here for years to come.
